

GENERAL INFORMATION

History

The University of La Verne was founded as Lordsburg College in 1891 by members of the Church of the Brethren, a denomination with roots in 18th century Germany, who later immigrated to Pennsylvania seeking religious freedom. Many were later drawn to California in the late 19th century by opportunities in agriculture. Mostly farmers, they valued education as a means for their children's social mobility, and as a way to advance the values of the Church of the Brethren heritage — peaceful living, simplicity, and community.

Today, 132 years later, the University of La Verne is a Carnegie classified National Comprehensive Doctoral Granting/Community Engaged University, and federally designated as a Hispanic Serving Institution. No longer affiliated with any religious group, the University's student body is majority-minority, with over half students of color or international, who represent many or no faiths. A significant number of La Verne's students are first-generation.

Both the College and small agricultural community were renamed La Verne in 1917. During the 1920's and 1930's almost three quarters of the student body studied teacher education. In the 40s, 50s, and 60s, programs of study and campus facilities multiplied, the Board of Trustees became independent of church control, and the student body became increasingly diverse as the College continued a commitment to service and a sound, values-oriented education. In the 1960's the college awarded its first master's degree, and in 1979, it conferred its first doctorate.

In line with its mission of providing access to groups often excluded from higher education, La Verne began offering degree programs to adult students in 1969, first under the name School of Continuing Education and later the Regional and Online Campuses. In 1970, La Verne opened its College of Law, then reorganized as the University of La Verne in 1977, and eventually formed five colleges: Arts & Sciences, Business, the LaFetra College of Education, College of Health and Community Well-Being, and the College of Law and Public Service. To better serve working adults, the University founded an Orange County campus in 1981 and a San Fernando Valley campus in 1983. To date, the University has a total of eight campuses across Southern California and has moved the College of Law to its own campus in downtown Ontario, California.

Probation accreditation is a temporary accreditation status initially of not less than two years. However, that period may be extended by the ARC-PA for up to an additional two years if the ARC-PA finds that the program is making substantial progress toward meeting all applicable standards but requires additional time to come into full compliance. Probation accreditation status is granted, at the sole discretion of the ARC-PA, when a program holding an accreditation status of Accreditation – Provisional or Accreditation – Continued does not, in the judgment of the ARC-PA, meet the Standards or when the capability of the program to provide an acceptable educational experience for its students is threatened.

Once placed on probation, a program that fails to comply with accreditation requirements in a timely manner, as specified by the ARC-PA, may be scheduled for a focused site visit and is subject to having its accreditation withdrawn.

Specific questions regarding the Program and its plans should be directed to the Program Director and/or the appropriate institutional official(s).

College of Health and Community Well-Being

Kathy Duncan, Interim Dean

Jerry Kernes, Associate Dean

The transformative initiative of our 2020-2025 Strategic Plan is the launch of a new College of Health and Community Well-Being. Graduates from this new University of La Verne college will have the training and skills to apply our core values to the healthcare workforce of the future and will meet a critical need in this region. These core values are ethical decision making, diversity and inclusion, lifelong learning, and civic and community engagement.

A number of disciplines and majors that currently exist in various colleges and units across the University of La Verne will come together this spring to form the core of the new College of Health and Community Well-Being. These programs include kinesiology, athletic training, physician assistant practice, clinical psychology, marriage and family therapy, child life, health administration, and various certificate programs. About 1,100 students are enrolled in these programs, studying with 34 full-time professors.

We are also working on starting new academic majors, disciplines, and programs in the college. The first will be a fully online RN to bachelor of science in nursing (BSN) program to assist currently employed registered nurses (who do not have a bachelor's degree) to advance in their careers. Additional majors, disciplines, and programs in nursing and other fields will be phased in over the following years.
